SENSATIONS IN A LETTERBRIDGE CASE

Woman Makes Stunning Admission in the Witness Stand—Jensen Proves Accused of Guilt—Dowdell—Told of Former Wrong Doings.

Letterbridge, May 11.—The Taylor-Thell trial was full of sensations today, the chief being the evidence of Mrs. Thell.

She swore that she was married to Albert Klahn in Toronto in 1906, and lived with him about a year, though he treated her meanly. She left him in 1907 because he wanted her to live in a lonely house kept by his sisters, to make money for him, she then returned home to Dundas.

Before marrying Klahn she had intimate relations with a priest stationed at Hamilton, who is the father of her child. She denied living a life of prostitution or doing wrong with anyone except the man named.

Details of Assault.
Speaking of the assault on February 15, the woman said Johnson had never before made any improper advances to her but when he came into the house that morning he said, "Let the girl, I love you as I can't keep my hands off you," and proceeded to commit violent assault on her. She called for Fred and Thell and Taylor rushed out of the room. She ran across back and asked if she would get a policeman, to which Johnson cried out, "Oh God, don't bring a policeman." Thell was called and corroborated the story of his wife, and Taylor, who followed him, admitted that he had a wife in England but that they had separated. Other witnesses gave evidence the same as in the first trial.

Constable Harris defied his own and took the stand to contradict the evidence of Johnson as to the interview they had in Johnson's office.

Johnson would not admit an anonymous letter as evidence.

The Alleged Blackmail.

At the trial yesterday afternoon W. H. Johnson, complainant, was on the stand nearly all day. Several hot cross-buns took place between him and Harris, in which each strongly intimated that the other was lying and knew it.

Johnson swore that Harris two days after the alleged blackmailing came to him and demanded payment of a $200 note or he would ruin him and his family. In reply to Harris the witness denied that he was paying anybody for evidence. Harris produced several letters which Johnson admitted were written on his typewriter.

Harris then produced an anonymous letter sent to Mrs. Thell by special delivery which Johnson denied writing, although he would not say but what it might have been written in his machine. Harris told the jury that he intended proving that it was the envelope which it was sent in was written on Johnson's typewriter. Johnson denied having received any letters from Mr. or Mrs. Spaven, the latter of whom was a crown witness. He denied also sending Spaven to Thell to negotiate a settlement. He denied also trying to get O. J. Hanson to withdraw a bond he gave for Thell's appearance.

Albert Klahn, of Toronto, testified to having married Martha Caldwell Thell, C.M., in 1906, and that she left him next year. The witness is now lodged at North Thell, wife of the accused.

NEW C. R. BUILDINGS.

Contracts Awarded for New Structures to J. J. McDonald and Company.

Buildings to be Grouped.

Montreal, May 11.—Messrs J. J. McDonald and Company have been given the contract for the erection of the new Canadian Pacific railway buildings at Calgary.

The plans of the C.P.R. provide for the grouping of their train shed and hotel buildings on the "property" between First street east and Fifth street west. It is expected that the building will be completed by October first. It will be of reinforced concrete, fireproof throughout, the outer walls of sandstone-vener and partitions of hollow tile. The dimensions are 125 feet by 45 feet, with four stories above the basement.

MADERO IS NOW THE PRESIDENT

New Cabinet Has Been Chosen in Mexico to Succeed Diaz—Insurrection Not Yet Fully Insured—Military Operations Likely to Continue for Some Time.

Juarez, Mex., May 11.—Mexico's provisional government became an established fact today with the naming of a cabinet by Francisco Madero, Provisional President, after the establishment of a capital at the captured city of Cuernavaca, called Cuernavaca.

Dr. Vasquez Gomez, Minister of Foreign Relations; Gloriano Madero, Minister of Finance; Francisco Carranza, Minister of War; Francisco Murguía, Minister of the Interior; Pío Suñer, Minister of Justice; Juan Aznárez, Secretary to the President.

Secretary of War Carranza will have charge of the railroad and telegraph and his first act was to grant permission for the return of the Mexican immediately set at work reorganizing the turn in railroad, south of Mexico.

That the insurrection was more than an armed mob was shown today by complete absence of looting and fire and the quietness with which the shattered city was cleared of its dead and wounded. The embargo against visiting was removed during the morning and evening sightseeing in thousands poured across the bridges leading from El Paso. Yet only occasional cases of looting by cattle thieves, and one or two thimble-skinned thieves in El Paso two other cattle thieves taken from the bus, church in which yesterday the rebels made a desperate stand.

Peace Negotiations.
Juarez, May 11.—The first conference of provisionally present Madero and his cabinet took up a plan for procedure for peace negotiations. In fact, the rebel chiefs are now distinguished to attend any peace talk, they say it has a disconcerting effect on the republic and military operations, they believe should consist primarily of a definite peace agreement in sight.

Mexico City, Mex., May 11.—A movement for the protection of foreign residents in this capital, in the event of the revolution, is being organized throughout the country was instituted today but the dispatches representative of use larger countries. It is expected that that and other similar member of the committee is working together in form a program of self-defense in case of need.

Gateway Heights

ATHABASCA LANDING

Your best chance for a Paying Investment

In the early days the Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton townships were all down on the flat, but as the railways came in the cities all built upon the hill. History will repeat itself at Athabasca Landing. At the present time Athabasca Landing is down at the water's edge with no room for expansion except to the south and this compels the town to come up the hill to the level ground.

Gateway Heights is on the hill overlooking the present townsite and the mighty Athabasca River, and is the most ideal location for the city.

You cannot afford to miss this opportunity. We are selling property every day to Edmonton people who missed the opportunity in the early days to buy inside property, but now see the Great Future Athabasca Landing has. The C.N.R. will be built in Athabasca Landing by midsummer, then you will see a quick advance in property.

You know that it is impossible to accumulate much profit or become independent through money investment in savings banks at 3 or 4 per cent. Invariably the men who become independent are those who buy in at the ground floor or opening price of propositions since they are absolutely sure of finding themselves in the pathway of early and substantial profits.

This property is selling quickly, and it will be worth your time to call up and investigate. Let us show you how you can make some quick money.

Every share of the stock of the Edmonton Portland Cement Co., Ltd., should be owned by the people of Edmonton and vicinity, for three reasons:—

1. It is an Edmonton enterprise; there is plenty of money here for it; the shares should be kept at home.
2. It should pay 40 per cent dividends on its capital stock from the day the plant begins to operate.
3. The shares should go to $200 in two years and $500 in five years.

Read Article No. 5 and see what this enterprise means to Edmonton.

ARTICLE NUMBER FIVE

In order to fully appreciate the remarkable future which lies before the Edmonton Portland Cement Company it is necessary to keep in mind two facts; one is the unprecedented growth of the cement industry, and the other is essential conditions for a successful Portland cement plant.

As has been stated before in this series of articles the growth of the Cement Industry in the past twenty years has no parallel in the industrial history of the world. In the beginning, Portland Cement was used only for bridge building, aqueducts, and other construction requiring a hydraulic cement. Then came that great era of building which had its beginning about twenty years ago, and with it came the demand for some building material, more practical than brick or stone, and equal to such gigantic engineering undertakings as great railway tunnels, subways, irrigation and reclamation projects, and finally the Panama Canal, where 3,000,000 barrels of Portland cement will be used. Concrete met these vast requirements far better than stone, and the demand for Portland cement received another powerful impetus.

And then, with the rise of those practical as well as humane and aesthetic considerations, which came to rescue the material civilization of the twentieth century from its dangers and impermanence, was heard the world wide call for a building material that would be not only permanent but fireproof. The fragile and rapidly decaying character of modern buildings, as compared to the magnificent monuments of by-gone ages, had been a poor testimony to the skill and foresight of modern builders. And the London fire costing $55,000,000, the Moscow fire costing $150,000,000, the Hamburg fire costing $175,000,000, the Chicago fire costing $190,000,000, the San Francisco fire costing $300,000,000, and finally the indescribable horrors of the Iroquois theatre holocaust, was the voice of trade and the cry of home for a building material that would make such world tragedies impossible.

Concrete the Construction Material of this Century.

Sir Henry Bessemer, by his discovery of the decarburization of steel, had made cheap steel for construction purposes possible, and steel had its day of trial. But steel was open to the serious objection of rust and the fatal fact that under a moderate heat it will warp and collapse and in the furious flames of a conflagration, it melts like wax. But Reinforced Concrete, which first came into use in 1895 and which is merely steel construction imbedded in concrete walls, met the conditions perfectly, and the result was a building material which defies the horrors of fire and the ravages of time.

And the material monuments of twentieth century civilization will crown with immortal fame the names of two great Englishmen, one a nobleman, the other from the ranks of labor: Sir Henry Bessemer, and Joseph Aspdin, the Leeds bricklayer, who, in 1825, discovered Portland Cement.

With the universal adoption of Concrete as a building material Portland Cement took another ten strides forward in the seven-league boots of modern progress.

Then came the adoption of Portland Cement for special purposes,—which will be discussed in a subsequent article, such as the monolithic house, tree preservation, ornamental concrete, and a hundred domestic uses on the farm. And the cumulative results of these manifold demands for Portland Cement is shown in the following table:

Growth of the Cement Industry in America from 1870 to the Present Time.

Year	Number barrels produced.	Year	Number barrels produced.
1870 to 1879	82,000	1895	990,324
1880	42,000	1896	1,543,023
1881	60,000	1897	2,677,775
1882	85,000	1898	3,692,284
1883	90,000	1899	5,652,266
1884	100,000	1900	8,483,020
1885	150,000	1901	12,711,225
1886	150,000	1902	17,230,644
1887	250,000	1903	22,342,973
1888	250,000	1904	26,505,581
1889	300,000	1905	35,246,812
1890	335,500	1906	46,463,424
1891	451,813	1907	48,875,310
1892	517,140	1908	51,972,912
1893	590,825	1909	62,508,461
1894	789,775	1910	74,000,000

A Remarkable Advantage.

The other great fact to be kept in mind is that while the demand for Portland Cement is as yet but in its infancy, and ten years hence 200,000,000 million barrels will be consumed annually instead of 74,000,000; that practically this whole continent has been prospected for Cement materials—for the marl or lime rock and the clay, shale or slate. For many years plants were only located where the two materials could be found near together. But as they have no geological association and are only found contiguous by mere chance, opportunities like that were soon exhausted. Now cement mills are being built where one material is to be found and the other is shipped to the mill. And some plants are being built at a long distance from either material. The competing plant nearest to the Edmonton Portland Cement Company ships both of its materials by rail,—the lime-rock 65 miles and the shale 28 miles.

All of this adds to the cost of production and increases the market price of Portland Cement. And as the demand for Portland Cement grows and the cost of its manufacture advances, the advantages of such a property as that of the Edmonton Portland Cement Company increases enormously.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company owns what is believed to be the largest marl deposit on the American Continent, from surveys and testings already made the deposit is sufficient to supply a 1,500 barrel mill for forty years. When complete surveys and testings have been made the deposit will undoubtedly be found sufficient to supply a 2,500 barrel mill for forty years. And the plant of the Edmonton Portland Cement Company will be so built that it can be enlarged to a 2,500 barrel capacity whenever the market creates the demand. The clay bed is only five miles away and is far greater in extent than will ever be required.

What This Means to Edmonton.

Now all of this means that a cement mill situated as is the plant of the Edmonton Portland Cement Company, has a very great advantage. It can sell its product at the market price fixed by its competitors that are manufacturing cement under unfavorable and costly conditions. And it can produce its product at from three-fourths to one-half the cost of manufacture at such plants.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company has a marl deposit sufficient for the production of at least 12,500,000 barrels of Portland Cement and probably twice that amount. Its clay bed is still greater. An inexhaustible coal supply is at its very door. It need never cost the Edmonton Portland Cement Company more than 75 cents a barrel to manufacture cement. And as the market grows and the price advances, this plant can go on producing Portland Cement at the present manufactured cost, and add to its profits the increase in cost of production and freight charges on materials, necessary to competing plants, and always find an instant demand for its output at the market price fixed by the disadvantages of its competitors.

This is another reason why the Edmonton Portland Cement Company Limited should pay 40 per cent dividends on its capital stock, why its shares should go to $200.00 in one year and to $500 in five years, and why every share of its stock should be kept at home.
